Safety re-crafted

How can we create health and safety practices that work for everyone?

By collecting insights from a diverse range of perspectives, including yours, we aim to establish a positive vision for workplace health and safety, and create tangible ideas of how we can step towards this now in our work environments. This vision and ideas will shift away from bureaucratic norms and embracing values such as care and human-centricity, while also expanding our comprehension of and enhancing the way work is conducted. With a focus on desired outcomes, our approach involves actively identifying and creating effective practices, pinpointing obstacles that hinder potential, and fostering creative ideas to improve both our processes and their execution.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Join others in the pursuit of high-value health and safety practices, and work collectively to chart an inspiring and audacious path toward a more meaningful and successful future.

The Safety Re-crafted series is not just a one-day event; it is a dynamic platform where curiosity reigns, value is explored, and a network of passionate individuals continuously shares insights, experiences, practices, evidence, and ideas.

Facilitated by safety innovation experts Rob Cousins and Daniel Hummerdal, our Safety Re-crafted series enable you to access:

- Inspiration: Anchor your vocation in a positive vision of the change you wish to create.
- Learnings: Engage with industry veterans and mentors who will assist you in finding and establishing new practices
- Critical Thinking: Challenge the status quo by questioning conventional notions about practices
- Network - Connect with professionals and peers who share your passion for health and safety practices
- Collaboration - Join forces with like-minded individuals from diverse backgrounds to collectively cultivate new and practical pathways for change.
- A grassroots movement that extends far beyond our event.

Your participation is key to uncovering the collective wisdom that will shape the future of health and safety practices. Secure your spot now!

AGENDA

8:30am      Arrival tea/coffee

9:00am      Welcome and introductions

9:15am      Health and safety practices that work for everyone

Defining what desirable safety practices look like - moving beyond the status quo of bureaucratic/tick-and-flick, reactive and people constraining ideals. Setting up foundations for re-crafting practices in our own workplaces, with support from like-minded peers.

10:30am      Causing an effect

Identifying practical steps to re-craft safety practices. Understanding how a desired future can be brought to life in your unique settings through micro-experimentation. Recognising opportunities for change in our work and workplaces, how these might be connected with those of others, and how we can work together to create change.

12:30pm      Lunch

1:00pm      Taking action

Connecting with smaller groups of people who share your interest and area of opportunity. Critically examine the status quo and ideating new possibilities. Designing micro-experiments as a way to create movement and evidence for better practices.

3:00pm      Staying connected

Establishing ways to continue collaboration in this way beyond the event.

4:30pm      Event end
